SESQUIPLANE READY FOR ROME JUMP

Today

Let Us Praise Coolidge.
Mighty Is Gold.
No Slaves Needed.
Mr. Teagle Shoots Grouse.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.]

WISCONSIN trout now swim in peace, no alert Calvin Coolidge there to catch them.

The president, back in Washington, resumes work for the American people with efficiency.

That alleged deficit of $96,000,000 must die. President Coolidge is going to kill it deader than a trout after it has been hooked and broiled.

LET us praise the president for that and for sound common sense as regards the French-English naval treaty.

According to President Coolidge, that treaty is none of our business, which is to look after our own affairs, letting the Europeans attend to theirs.

THE most important part of our business should be the building of a great fighting air fleet, plus a big fleet of submarines. With airplanes and submarines, the rest of the world might do as it likes and we could sleep soundly and continue to wallow, complacently in prosperity.

FUTURE historians, studying this period of "barter and exchange," will wonder that men clung so long to gold as their standard, spending on gold mining more than ever was taken from gold mines.

THIS country, the treasury vaults alread swollen with gold, gets $2,500,000 more gold from England, and that little driblet sends up Wall street prices, in spite of brokers' loans increasing $96,000,000.

ENGLAND doesn't like to lose the $2,500,000 gold, but is comforted by the arrival of $5,000,000 worth of fresh gold from South African mines.

ANCIENT Greece said:

"No, civilization without slaves. No slaves to do hard work; no leisure for philosophers to think."

Aristotle ought to see teh new Edison electric light plant in New York, operated without human labor, controlled by a key three miles from the plant. It will supply light for 300,000 apartments.

SLAVES are not necessary to civilization, or to leisure, not even slaves on a wage basis earning just what they need to keep them alive.

MR. TEAGLE, president of Standard Oil company of New Jersey, one of the little octupuses into which the big S. O. octupus was chapped up, returns from Europe cheerful about oil.

The whole world, he thinks, will soon agree on a plan to curb short-sighted oil waste.

MR. TEAGLE visited Lord Deterding, biggest oil man in Britain, "principally for the grouse shooting." But he also talked while there to Sir John Cadman, head of the Anglo-Persian Oil company. And the speed of a "driven grouse" was not the only thing discussed.

However, don't buy stock from an oil shark, with a big vocabulary and

TWO DIE AFTER AUTO CRASH

Motorists Hit People When Car Is Ditched.

Albert S. Andrews, 52, insurance dealer of Canfield, Mahoning county, and a cousin of Mrs. J. W. Johnson, Orchard Grove avenue, and his wife, are dead today as the result of injuries sustained when the automobile in which they were riding struck a ditch at Palmyra, southeast of Ravenna.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Morris, Youngstown, were returning from Detroit where they had attended a meeting of the National Association of Life Underwriters, when the accident occurred.

Blinding headlights of another automobile are believed to have caused Morris to lose control of the car as it swerved into a ditch. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews, who were riding in the back seat, were thrown against a telephone pole. They died before they reached a Youngstown hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Morris suffered nervous shock and minor lacerations.

Andrews was the manager of a co-operative store in Canfield for about 15 years. Two years ago he became interested in the insurance business. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and the Presbyterian church. Three children, Wilma, at Kent; Lucille, at Oberlin, and Floyd, of Texas, survive.

ROMA AWAITS SHIFT IN WIND FOR LONG HOP ACROSS OCEAN

Giant Craft "Tunes Up" At Old Orchard, Me.

SHIP FOGBOUND

Weather Charts Show Excellent Flying Conditions.

By James J. Delaney.

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Maine, Sept. 17.—All hope that the Maine-to-Rome flight of the sesquiplane Roma would start today was abandoned this afternoon when the propeller of the giant Bellanca plane was found to be out of "true" and a leak was discovered in one of her gas tanks.

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Maine, Sept. 17.—Preparations were made this noon for a quick start of the Sesqui plane Roma over the 4,600-mile "air road" to Rome.

While the giant airplane remained fog-bound at Portland airport, Scarboro, Pierro Bonelli, navigator and radio operator, suddenly arrived from New York.

Bonelli reported that, despite local fog, the weather charts showed excellent flying conditions over the Atlantic for the next 48 hours and that every effort would be made to have the Roma in the air just as soon as a shift in the wind cleared the offshore fogbanks.

Roger Q. Williams will act as chief pilot and Dr. Leon F. Piersculli will be the fourth man aboard.

The ship will carry 1,150 gallons of gasoline. Some 3,300 miles of the trip to the Italian capital must be made over open water. Sabelli said he hoped to complete the journey in about 45 hours.

HOOVER BEGINS FIRST DRIVE TO WIN EAST

Republican Nominee Motors Through New Jersey.

"ON AIR" TONIGHT

Candidate Will Make Bid For Support Of Labor.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Herbert Hoover today began the first of three personal drives to win the industrial east to his banner.

The Republican nominee will tour New Jersey by motor this afternoon and tomorrow, with a speech tonight at Newark. On his trip, his managers expected him to come into personal contact with from 500,000 to 1,000,000 of New Jersey's inhabitants.

The trip will mark Hoover's first invasion of the territory in which his Democratic rival, Governor Alfred E. Smith, has been conceded great strength. By a coincidence, it comes at a time when Smith has left to invade the middle west, where Hoover has been granted a similar concession.

Reception in Newark.

In his address tonight, Hoover will make his great bid for the support of organized labor. He will elaborate upon the policies laid down in his acceptance speech and in the Republican platform and his efforts will be directed toward holding the workers of the east in the Republican ranks.

Hoover was due to reach Newark at 1 o'clock, Eastern Standard time. He was to be met by a parade of automobiles, which he will join for a tour of Newark, the nearby Oranges and Montclair. Later in the afternoon, he will visit Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Edison at their home in Menlo park.

At 5:30 the nominee will attend a reception in Newark, where he will meet the Republican leaders, whose duty it will be to keep the state in the Republican column in November. Af-

GOV. AL SMITH HEADS WEST ON POLITICAL HOP

Democrat Carries Fight Into G. O. P. Zone.

11-CAR TRAIN

Nominee Invades Corn Belt and Oil Fields.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

ABOARD GOVERNOR SMITH'S TRAIN, Sept 17.—Gov. Al Smith headed westward today on the greatest political adventure of the campaign.

Upon his success or failure in the Rooseveltian task of "winning the west" may conceivably hinge the outcome of the presidential race.

With characteristic courage and audacity, the New York governor has set out to carry his fight into territory that if not inimical to his candidacy, at least is traditionally Republican.

The man in the brown derby from the sidewalks of New York is going west to talk progressivism to audiences in eight states.

Omaha Speech Tuesday

He is going to outline a program of agricultural relief tomorrow night in Omaha, the heart of the grain belt. He is going further than the Republicans, have yet been willing to go in meeting the demands of the farm organizations who fought so bitterly and so futilely for the McNary-Haugen bill. And there-after audiences in Oklahoma, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin, are going to hear from his lips his ideas and policies on water power development, transportation, the tariff, intolerance, foreign affairs, im-

West Indian Storm's Toll Unknown as it Moves Toward Gulf

Cities and Towns in Its Path Are Cut Off From Communication and Details Filtering Through Give No Estimate of Loss of Life or Extent of Damage.

HEAVY WIND HITS MIAMI BUT DESTRUCTION THERE IS NOT SERIOUS

Wires Leveled, Trains Halted and Houses, Bridges andTrees Are Razed as 50 to 125-an-Hour Blow Sweeps in From Carribean and Whips Peninsula in South.

With an unknown toll of damage and destruction in its wake, the West Indian hurricane which blew up from the Carribean, swept over the Florida peninsula and headed northwest toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Cities and towns in its path were cut off from communication and meager details filtering through did not estimate the loss of life, or the extent of the devastation.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS FOR RELIEF WORK IN HURRICANE-SWEPT ZONE

An appeal for funds with which to finance relief work among survivors of the Porto Rico hurricane, was made to officials of the East Liverpool chapter of the American Red Cross by the national organization today.

No campaign will be made in the East Liverpool district, but donations in cash will be accepted by W. E. Dunlap, treasurer, at the First National bank.

The following telegram from John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross at Washington, was received by Mrs. John Bowers, secretary of the East Liverpool chapter:

"West Indian hurricane destroyed thousands of houses in Porto Rico and other islands, also devastating crops. Immediate need for food, shelter, medical supplies, and emergency relief. Red Cross taking charge at request of President Coolidge; need for large fund imperative. Please give widest possible publicity to this appeal and notify public your chapter will receive and forward to national headquarters all contributions.

"Wire action taken. Initial donation made $50,000 from national funds. Henry Baker, director of disaster relief and trained staff now on way to island."

The hurricane's greatest force as it passed over the east coast apparently struck the region lying between the Palm Beaches and Juniter.

Miami experienced a heavy wind, but no serious [illegible]

Town and hamlets dotting the lower coast [illegible] state apparently were hard hit and reports indicate the hurricane roared through the section at a velocity varying from 50 to 60 to 100 to 125 miles an hour.

Communication was paralyzed, trains were halted, and houses, bridges, roofs, trees and wires were blown down. A heavy rain was reported generally throughout the area.

PORTO RICO DEATH TOLL PLACED AT 200; FIGHT AGAINST PESTILENCE

SAN JUAN, Sept. 17.—With death, destruction and ruin everywhere, Porto Rico figuratively forgot its scars today in a determined effort to keep the gaunt spectres, pestilence and starvation, from adding their horror to the chaotic conditions created by the terror-inspiring hurricane which swept the country.

Reliable estimates place the number who died in the hurricane at about 200. Between 300,000 and 500,000 persons are homeless. Property valued at about fifty million dollars was destroyed. Many towns are still isolated, roads are impassable and food and water are scarce.

The majority of the island's crops have been destroyed. Most of the coffee and fruit trees have been ruined. Sugar and canning factories have been leveled to the ground.

Before the hurricans, a bumper sugar crop brought with it the hope of exceptional prosperity this year. Now Porto Rico faces economic ruin.

Leading citizens have petitioned Governor Towner to take swift reconstructive measures. They ask martial law, requisitioning of all available supplies of food and its proper apportionment, and the drafting of all able-bodied men for employment on farms and public works so that reconstruction may go on smoothly and quickly.

WEST INDIAN HURRICANE RUSHES TOWARD TAMPA; WIDE ZONE ISOLATED

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 17.—Moving northwestward at the destructive rate of 100 miles an hour, the West Indian hurricane today swept the lower central portion of Florida and was rushing toward Tampa.

At 6:20 o'clock, Eastern Standard time, the center of the storm was believed in the vicinity of Lakeland. In touch with its correspondent at that hour, International News Service was informed the storm was the worst in Lakeland's history.

The barometer had fallen to 28.80, and the howling gale smashed windows and unroofed houses, similar to the damage done to the east coast cities. Just then the shaky wire snapped and efforts to regain the connection were futile.

Whole State Feels Fury.

A wide stretch of territory, extending from Jacksonville south, was virtually isolated today.

The whole state felt the fury of the hurricane, which apparently was central at West Palm Beach on the east coast. This city has been isolated for some time, and relief and scouting parties were moving toward that city by automobile from Miami, which escaped the brunt of the storm.

Train service was at a standstill, as reports were received of bridges destroyed. Meantime, wrecking crews have been sent from Miami to Palm Beach to clear the highways, reported littered with fallen trees and debris.

Palm Beaches Hit.

The extent of the havoc wrought by the hurricane at the Palm Beaches will not be known until wire service is restored or until some of the scouting parties reach the isolated city. Some reports of death there have been received but there is no way of confirming this.

Just before Palm Beach became isolated, the city reported a 125-mile-an-hour gale which tore off roofs, snapped telephone and telegraph wires and uprooted trees. First reports were that the storm was worse than the one which devastated Miami exactly two years ago. The Palm Beaches escaped with a light damage then, but appears to have suffered the brunt of the blow this time.

BOOZE PRICES SO HIGH IN GERMANY AMERICAN TOURISTS BRING THEIR OWN

15-Cent Package of U. S. Cigarettes Costs $.50 in Berlin.

BERLIN—Life is getting to be tougher and tougher for Americans living in Germany.

Champagne can still be bought in a night cafe from $4.00 a bottle upward, and German Rhine and Moselle wines from $1.00 a bottle upward.

But—

A 15-cent package of American cigarettes costs $1.50.

A bottle of Scotch or Rye costs $7.00 and more.

A bottle of Gordon gin costs $5.00 and more.

A Ford automobile costs $1,000 and more.

Foresighted Americans are now bringing their own whiskey with them from the dry shores of the U. S. A. American bootleg liquor is being smuggled into Germany. It's cheaper, if not better.

Germans see some sort of poetic justice in the fact that Americans living or visiting in Germany are forced to help pay the Dawes reparations, for the exhorbitant prices are the result of the high taxes put on these products for that purpose.

On the other hand, German papers publish the following advertisement:

International Trading Corporation exports whiskey, cognac, champagne, etc., to Mexico, Cuba, Canada, offers shares, exceptionally high profit chances, etc.

The corporation says its headquarters are in Cologne.

Japan will appropriate nearly $5,000,000 for subsidies to Japanese airship lines.

COLLEGE CLASS MAIL BAG DOES MORE THAN TRAVELING THAN LINDY

EMPORIA, Ka.—A little red mail bag, frayed now because of its travels back and forth among the members of the 1925 graduating class of the college of Emporia here, has done more traveling in the last three years than Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

Now the bag contains letters to thirty-six members of the class and in its two "round-robin" trips to the graduates, has been in all of the forty-eight states, in Alaska and in the Philippines. Twice it was lost, but each time it was found and returned to its journeying.

The round robin letter bag was rigged up to resemble a mail sack, placed in the hands of Clifford Morgan, president of the class, and started on its travels. Morgan sent the letter to the members of the class whose names came first alphabetically, the member wrote a letter to the next graduate and so on down the line until the bag returned to Morgan more than a year ago. Morgan started it on the same journey again and now the sack is making its third trip. In the bag is a corrected mailing list of the graduates.

As each member sends the bag on its travels, he sends a postal card to Morgan, who is enabled to keep track of the round robin bag or "bird" as it is called.

Prolonged drought has done much damage in Jamaica this year.

Just a little after every meal stops all chance of indigestion and guarantees stomach comfort or money back. Mathews Med. Store and druggists everywhere sell it on this understanding. All Voters Must Register

Every East Liverpool citizen who has attained his or her twenty-first birthday, or who will be of voting age on or before Tuesday, November 6, must register in order to exercise the right of suffrage in the general election.

The Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of election stressed this fact today as preparations were made for quadrennial enrollment in the county's only registration city.

Thursday, October 4; Thursday, October 11, and Friday and Saturday, October 19 and 20, fixed by law, have been designated as general registration days. And although new voters registered for the August 14 primaries, they must enroll against next month if they expect to have a voice in the election of national, state, district and county governments.

All old registration records will be destroyed when the new books are opened by the precinct registrars. Thus failure to sign the new books will disfranchise the voter.

Perform your duty as a citizen by going to the registration place on enrollment day.

Training Youth

Recently a business man, in a discussion of education, said he promised his two sons they might go to college, but on a single condition. They must learn a good trade before matriculating.

The explanation for this requirement was that excessive numbers of young people were being trained "for the non-producing white-collar departments of the world's work, only to find they are not needed," that it was only a small per cent of those with such training who could expect to succeed in the careers they desired to follow, or even could obtain the kind of positions they preferred.

This man wanted his boys to be prepared for some form of vocational work at good wages, whatever their possible choice later of a profession.

It is only natural that parents should prefer that their children be trained for positions of exceptional responsibility. Such an ambition is not only natural, but is laudable on the part of the young people themselves. Yet places of that kind, as they are ordinarily conceived, are relatively few and only those of unusual ability can expect to gain and hold them.

Further, the competition is keener than ever because of the greatly increased numbers of high school and college graduates.

On the other hand, the demand for skilled workers has grown as the nation has become more extensively industrialized, and the wages in the various trades and branches of industry often are better than can be had in many of the so-called white-collar jobs.

That is the new condition which American education is facing. It is the condition to which training in the public school system of East Liverpool is being adjusted. The primary aim of the high schools, for example, will not be simply to prepare boys and girls to enter college, but, where it is necessary and desirable, as it often is, to go out into the world and begin some useful, profitable work.

The aim, then, is to teach the young people that all constructive, needed labor is honorable and dignified. Such an ideal, commonplace as it may appear, is a late development in modern education. It should be applied in the interest of all American youth.

Disregard Propaganda.

One of the most deplorable outgrowths of any large political campaign is the determined effort on the part of certain misguided individuals, rightly labeled "cranks," to undermine the reputations of upright candidates.

Presidential elections are particularly subject to the interference of such nuisances, who carry on whispering campaigns designed to influence the uninformed voter by their prejudiced attacks. Already in the present campaign between Herbert Hoover and Alfred Smith there have been scurrilous charges and counter-charges hurled at the two candidates.

Usually these attacks issue from anonymous sources, or, at least, originate in unreliable quarters. Pamphlets, circular letters, and perhaps more than anything else, secret word-of-mouth propaganda spread offensive and biased reports that are passed out as authentic information.

Such proceedings as these can not be too strongly condemned. In their wide-spread use they do no harm so great as that of muddling and concealing the real issues of the campaign. Violent personal attacks are thrown out, one after another, and the vital and important matters of governmental principle on which the campaign is based are lost sight of by the emotional and easily impressed voters.

It is the duty of every intelligent voter to disregard these malicious statements which Republican National Chairman Dr. Hubert Work calls "immaterial utterances of folish extremists." They are unnessential beliefs which should have nothing to do with deciding the election of the next president of the United States.

Wild Game Increases.

The United States now has 75,000,000 acres of national forests, under the care of the forest service. Wild life is protected in these forests with the result that many animals not so long ago in danger of extermination have begun to thrive.

An animal census has been taken by 1,000 forest rangers. It indicates that the big game animals such as deer, bear, antelope and elk are actually increasing and that mountain goats and mountain sheep are now holding their own. Beavers, too, are on the increase with about 114,000 all told in the national forests. Even the bison or buffalo herds have grown to almost embarrassing numbers.

This is as it should be. It is always easy enough to declare an open season and permit hunters to kill off the excess numbers of these wild animals. It is never easy to restore them after they have been exterminated. It is to be hoped that other lines of conservation will prove as successful and that our native trees, wildflowers, songbinds and noble eagles will be saved before it is too late.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 17.—The French peasant has been famed for his skill and acumen as a tiller of the soil since the days of the Roman occupation of Gaul and, according to the bureau of agriculturel economics, may still be accorded that distinction. The bureau has just brought out study of French agricultural methods which, perhaps, contains some lesson for the American farmer.

The French farmer has always had an eye to profit. It will be remembered that when Germany levied an unprecedentedly heavy cash indemnity upon France after Sedan had brought to an end the Franco-Prussian War of 1870 the French peasantry drew forth from stockings, ancient chest, and other odd hiding places enough gold to pay off the indemnity before payment was due. Today they are as thrifty. No French farmer, no matter how small his tract, never goes to the poorhouse unless some outside evil has befallen him.

The reason for this, the American government's survey indicates, is that the French husbandman knows when to switch from an unprofitable crop to one which will pay. He does not remain in a rut, growing the same crop on the same acres year in and year out.

Beginning in the early nineties, the trend of population toward the cities had the nautral effect of increasing the demand for foodstuffs. Not in the aggregate course, but fewer people were raising their own crops and more were buying. The price of meat, as is usual in such circumstances, increased more rapidly than the price of cereals. Furthermore, the city people wanted bread whereas previously a large part of the bread consumption of the nation had been made from rye.

By that time an active world market had developed. Transportation and communication had reached a high state of development and a world market existed. Cheap cotton goods came from America and British mills and these supplanted linen and homespun, lowering the prices of hemp and flax. So the French farmer curtailed his production of these.

American, Canadian, and Argentine wheat had begun to flood the world markets and wheat could be imported at a low cost. So the French farmer abandoned much wheat acreage and turned to livestock production. But as American and Australian wool were purchasable at a low figure, sheep were dropped to a large extent and there was further concentration in the livestock business. Then frozen beef became a staple of overseas trade so the Frenchman still further narrowed his endeavors and bent his efforts on dairying.

At the end of the eighteenth century, 7 per cent of the French population lived in the country and tilled the soil. When the great cities sprung up the old self-sufficiency of a great population which fed itself diminished and a short harvest often resulted in bread shortage in Paris and the other cities. These being trying times, such a shortage was more than likely to result in political difficulties, riots and revolutionary attempts.

With the coming of the railroads, remote lands were opened to cultivation and there was generally increased production. Increasing prosperity, accompanying the industrial age, caused the consumption of more and more white bread. While from Waterloo to the World war the population of France increased but 39 per cent, in the same period wheat consumption increased 111 per cent. Wheat production reached its peak in France in 1907. In 1881 wheat had received tariff protection and prices rose in response, for some of the foreign wheat was kept out. However, the rising demand and the consequent higher prices for meat ultimately caused a decline in wheat consumption and now more than 13 per cent of French wheat requirements are imported; this in spite of the fact that large quantities come from French territory in Algeria.

At the beginning of the last century the per capita consumption of meat in France was 37.5 pounds per annum. At the outbreak of the World war it was 105.4 per capita per annum. Formerly much meat had been imported and although at the outbreak of the World war France was consuming more than four times as much meat as it was at the time of the French Revolution, the country was nearly independent of outside supplies ,importing only about 2 per cent By taking advantage of high prices for both meat and wheat, the French farmer continued to prosper.

Between 1862 and 1892 French cattle increased 897,000 head and hogs 1,383,000 while sheep declined 8,414,000 head. About 20 years before the war the dairy industry started in earnest to insure the French farmer profits no matter what might be offered in the way of meat and wheat competition from overseas. Just prior to the war 70 per cent of the cash income from farms came from the sale of meat animals and dairy products.

It is a great educational idea introduced into the lives of the most intelligent people in the world—American newspaper readers. It is a part of that best purpose of a newspaper—service. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. Can the weight of ice be determined by measuring the size of the piece? F. E. H.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that one cubic foot of ice weighs approximately 57 pounds; 30 cubic inches of ice weighs approximately 1 pound. These equivalents may be used in determining, by measurement, the approximate weight of a piece of ice.

Q. What do the initials K. C. mean after a man's name? A. G. P.

A. This is a title of honor in Great Britain conferred by royal patent upon barristers of distinction. It gives certain rights of precedure over barristers not so honored and is a highly valued distinction.

Q. How much did Lotta Crabtree leave to charity? P. W. A.

A. Her will disposed of some $4,000,000 for charitable and philanthropic purposes.

Q. Will an object weighing a pound sink to the bottom of the ocean? W. W. B.

A. Whether or not an object weighing a pound goes to the bottom of the ocean depends upon its structure. If its specific gravity or density is greater than that of water it will sink to the bottom no matter how great the depth.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—San Francisco's buoyancy and zip weave a lasting impression. A San Franciscan is rarely happy elsewhere. Rudyard Kipling tooled the penegyric: "San Francisco has only one drawback, 'tis hard to leave." And—sneaking over a fast one—that is true of Los Angeles. As I noticed last eve.

We arrived at dawn in a fog, yet all felt an animation. Every visitor has been touched by this irrepressible spirit—the spirit of joyous abandon that transformed Tetrazzini into a street singer and Kibelik into a wandering troubador. You cannot explain. It is merely one of those things.

The city is enthroned on glamorous hills—crazy and cock-eyed in their confusion. Over the bay sea gulls were wheeling about and screaming a noisy welcome, and myriad illuminated ferryboats rippled the waters with yellow blobs of fire. Here once nestled a sleepy Spanish pueblo. Then came the gold flecked days of the Argonauts. And now look!

Boys and girls, this is a city—a city with more of the dash of Paris than any other in America. There is a jealousy between San Francisco and Los Angeles, but the healthy vigilance of civic pride, and back of the bickerings is a mutual admiration. Each has achieved a glorious destiny. So let 'em spat.

The weather here is cooler and—with a nice big hug for the Chamber of Commerce—muggier. But there is plenty of sunshine along with its sudden mid afternoon chill. San Francisco, I should say, is a trifle more aloof to the stranger. But its vivacity is more pronounced than that of Los Angeles.

Passing through the Ferry Building, one comes upon the surge of Market street and its jangle. All streets criss-cross this main artery that zig-zags diagonally through the town. Take a walk and try to keep off Market street, then, using one side of the paper, send me your answer in block letters. The electric radiance at night is doggy.

One of the pivotal points down town is Lotta's Fountain, a gift to the ity by Lotta Crabtree, a beloved stage idol at whose feet worshipful miners tossed golden nuggets in days agone. San Francisco speaks in a medley of alien tongues and, pardon another cartwheel, is strikingly, and gloriously cosmopolitan.

San Francisco's water front inspired Jack London to answer the call of the sea and furnished high lights for the excellent literature of Frank Norris. Every variety of craft is harbored here, from a Chinese junk to an enormous Pacific liner. Drawn from all far-flung points of the compass are Portuguese, Cornishmen, Chinese, South Sea Islanders, Singalese—brawny seamen with hair on their chests who go around the Horn on windjammers and down to the sea in ships. Embarcado piers are piled with tea, rice, silk, hemp and tobacco, creating that aura of adventure that grips us all. San Francisco is the key port of the Pacific and its water front is a monument to its eternal debt to the sea. And I wish I could tell you what a parrot perched on a peg-legged seamen's shoulder called me, and I would if I didn't happen to be so poison nice.

It stirs the imagination to think of this city in cradle days as a red-shirted mining camp, but it is staggering to realize its Phoenix-like rise from the ashes of its devastating fire to present opulence. The city today really dates back to reconstruction following 1906. What an achievement!

San Francisco is so rich in literary lore that most of us measly little chicken-breasted scribblers stand humbled before it. It was here such illustrious as the following started: Mark Twain, Bret Harte, Edwin Markham, Joaquin Miller, Jack London, Gertrude Atherton, Frank, Charles and Kathleen Norris, Will and Wallace Irwin, Ambrose Bierce, George Sterling, Peter B. Kyne, R. L. Stevenson, Herman Whitaker and Gelett Burgess.

Hotel bell hops are nearly all middle-aged men. Many are those who have grown gray "hopping bells" from coast to coast. "We wind up here" said one, "and never leave."

The climate has a wallop. In the chill of an early morning you have an urge to kick off the blankets and tip over a mountain. Ladies, as well as geraniums, grow tall and handsome. And the teetering gentlemen who remarked as I registered at an hotel, "Give the Duke and his white spats a nice sunny room," doesn't realize how narrowly he escaped a sock on the jaw.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

A few weeks back I attended a very interesting picnic. It was the annual meeting of "The Three-Quarter Century Club" of my native county. Unfortunately there was a terrific rain and wind storm, but in spite of the weather about 200 persons assembled.

Enrolled in that club are between four and five hundred members, each one seventy-five or older. The honorary president is ninety-eight. My father, a young man of ninety, is the president.

My old friend, Dr. John H. Kellogg, of Battle Creek, was one of the speakers. He spoke of the evils of meat eating and of tobacco. The honorary president shares Dr. Kellogg's horror of tobacco and urged me to tell my readers about a man "who lived to be ninety-eight and never used the vile and health-destroying weed."

Of course I was frankly puzzled when I looked about only to see a lot of those hardy old pioneers puffing at big black cigars. They acted to me as if that was their daily habit, but perhaps the old folks were out on a bit of a lark.

Old age is a state of mind. I have met lots of grouchy, grumbling men of thirty-five or forty, who are really old. They act old and feel old and are old.

On the contrary, there are plenty of men and women, well past eighty who are cheerful and hopeful, looking on the bright side of life. They are really young.

Every person of advanced years has a theory to account for continued survival. There must be mnay factors. Each of them has its place.

One important factor is cleanliness. I don't mean by this merely what soap and water will do for you. It must be assumed that everybody is clean in person and clothing. I refer to a more important cleanliness—internal cleanliness.

Nobody can be clean inside if he has diseased tonsils or teeth, pouring filth into the system. Nobody can be clean who has an overloaded intestine, filled with fermenting material. Uncleanliness from either one of these causes must undermine health and shorten life.

Get rid of all centres of pus formation or germ breeding. Take into your system food and drink that are clean and pure and nourishing. Then you may hope to live to join the Three-Quarter Century Club.

Diplomacy At Its Best.

Ambassador Morrow has been on a brief sight-seeing trip in Mexico. He went in a private and personal capacity, not as the diplomatic representative of the United States. That made no difference to the communities on his route. When the ambassador returned to Mexico City he was honorary mayor of the town of Tule and Mitla; and honorary citizen of Oaxaco and Puebla, not to include hamlets between them, and friend, brother and honorary headman of a tribe of Zapotecan Indians. It is a common observation that the means of disseminating information in the country outside the populous centers are limited. Yet the masses had learned about Morrow and his methods. They showed their appreciation in overwhelming fashion. Nothing that has occurred since Morrow left the field of banking and finance for the sphere of government relations show more vividly his continuing success. It is too soon to say that he will reconcile, without reverses, all the complicated and troublesome differences that have caused misunderstanding between the United States and Mexico. It is, nevertheless, certain that within less than a year—his period of service—he has brought about a new attitude toward his nation. — Indianapolis News.

Once Overs

By J. J. Bundy.

Don't Talk About Your Husband.

Mrs. Married Woman, don't express to others the opinion that your husband is an important person in the concern where he is employed.

You are bound to be ridiculed and he may be embarrassed.

The man who owns the business or has a controlling interest is the big man of the place.

Others are comparatively small.

Good positions, perhaps, but still they are employes.

Some husbands lead their wives to think that the organization for which they work would be in a poor way if it were not for them.

And wives who believe such a thing are likely to make it known among their personal friends and acquaintances.

Some wives might be greatly chagrined if they knew just how small the place their husbands fill in their individual positions.

It is unwise for a woman to talk about her husband in connection with his place of business or the company employing him.

Young wives can damage their husbands thus and interfere with further advancement with the firm if they are so indiscreet as to talk about their husbands, especially as concerns their jobs.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot pat away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

Forty Years' Practical Experience Back of A. R. Murphy, Furniture Builder, Upholsterer

HOT WEATHER DEMANDS GOOD LUBRICATION

White Front Station Promises Results With Freedom.

GOOD FOR MOTORS

East End Firm Sells Complete Line of Freedom Products.

If automobiles could be turned inside out—if motors could be examined without difficult, you could see the results of good lubrication and, equally, what happens when there is poor lubrication. This kind of weather demands the best in lubrication, you know.

You could see the effects of good lubrication in the way Freedom perfect motor oils keep the cylinder walls smooth and well protected from damage by fire and friction. You could see how piston wear is retarded and how accurately the fit of those pistons is maintained.

Freedom perfect is the result of an experience in the refining of 100 per cent Pennsylvania crude oils which dates back 49 years.

Ask for it by name and go to the White Front Filling station at 1700 Pennsylvania avenue when you need it.

The White Front station sells a complete line of Freedom gasoline and other products; washes and greases cars; repairs and paint chasses and fenders; and charges and repairs batteries.

STRESS USE OF COURTESY

Golden Star Drivers Trained in All Forms of Service.

There are many reasons why the use of Golden Star ice appeals to the many patrons of this establishment. And not the least of these is the fact that the customer is given courteous service by the drivers.

The Golden Star considers the supplying of ice a very important service—everyone probably realizes that especially during this hot weather.

Therefore the Golden Star likes to put everything in connection with this supplying of ice on a service basis — promptness and regularity.

In keeping with this thought the Golden Star's drivers are hand-picked men studiously inclined toward courtesy. Attentiveness to your satisfaction is their evidence that they, as well as the Golden Star Dairy, appreciates your patronage.

Began Trade Back in 1887, in Knoxville, Tenn.

FACTORY WORKER

Can Build From Raw Wood to Finished Product.

Forty years of practical experience —an experience obtained in several of the leading furniture factories in the midwest under exacting tutors — stands back of every piece of work turned out by A. R. Murphy, the upholsterer.

Murphy's shop, which has become widely known throughout the district during the comparatively short period of time in which he has worked here, is located in Green lane, just a few steps off the Horn switch.

The high quality of work turned out by Murphy has served to advertise his shop and its products.

Murphy is not experimenting with or learning the upholstering business. Indeed not. Although he's always trying to improve his handiwork.

Over a period of 40 years—almost 41 to be exact, Mr. Murphy has been building furniture.

From 1887 to 1914 he was a factory man. He learneed the trade in Knoxville, Tenn., where he spent 18 years with the old Boyd and Allen Antique shop, where the exacting nature of the work demanded more than an ordinary amount of skill.

Here he built new furniture and reproduced antiques.

From the Boyd and Allen shop he went to Pogue's, in Cincinnati. He was with Pogue for approximately five years, devoting most of his time to covering furniture of all types and prices.

From Pogue's he went over to the Carr Brothers Furniture factory, also in Cincinnati, where he remained with the Carr Brothers until 1914.

Leaving Carr's, he returned to Kentucky, being called to the March Furniture Store where he was installed in a shop of his own.

Here he handled all of the March company's work, recovering, rebuilding, repairing, etc., and also worked on his own hook.

He was with the Lexington firm until last February when he came to East Liverpool.

Mr. Murphy has delved deeply into the conservative phase of the furniture game and as a result can do just about anything with it. He can build, in fact, from the raw wood to the polished product.

A special feature of his service is piping and tufting on antique furniture which, he says, is exclusive with his shop here.

He makes old furniture look like new. For this reason no one need discard an old, cherished chair, lounge or other piece simply because it may be "breaking out" in spots or in other ways showing signs of a ripe old age. Murphy will fix it, adding years and years of service to its life.

At his shop he has sample coverings, etc., over a price range of 75 cents to $33 a yard, in imported or domestic materials. His customers have the additional advantage of being able to select their materials from the lines of five different supply houses with which he is in close touch.

His prices are reasonable, considering the quality of workmanship that goes with them. He'll be glad to discuss your work, large or small, at any time.

Use the telephone—his residence is 1374-R, and his shop telephone, 557-J.

PAINT, PAPER ADD VALUE TO YOUR PROPERTY

Mayhew's Have Everything Needed in Either Line.

PROMPT SERVICE

Will Supply Estimates On All Redecorating Jobs.

A touch of color here—a little more life there—trimming up the house in which we live so that it might look its best. New wall paper of cheerful color and artistic modern design, and possibly a fresh coat of paint for the exterior.

Some part of this program, perhaps all, is necessary to the ordinary house when fall arrives. And in these improvements you are adding value to your property, especially when your work measures up to the standard established by James L. Mayhew, Chester contractor in paperhanging and painting.

Once you have employed Mayhew's service—to paint your home, to hang new paper, to redecorate—it is your's without delay. There's no undue waiting for several days or a week or so after their estimate is accepted. Mayhew service is available immediately and you have it until the job is finished.

It is striking—the new sense of personality that tasteful and artistic wall paper can give to a room. And never has Mayhew's shown such a lovely array of fashionable new designs as they are now displaying. You'll be surprised at the charming effects you can achieve at a very small cost in selecting from their new assortments.

There are fashions, you know, in wall paper just as there are in apparel and other things and the smart hostess to today sees to it that the decorations of her home are just as tasteful and up to the minute as are her own frocks.

Whether it's a matter of civic pride with you or just the personal pleasure of living in surroundings that are spic and span, you'll find at Mayhew's everything that you'll need to do a first class job of painting or decorating from sandpaper to wall paper and all at moderate prices.

BOYD'S REPAIR ADDS MILEAGE

Adding extra mileage to automobiles is the job the Boyd Motor Repair company performs satisfactorily and efficiently daily at their shop in Rural lane.

Touring time is just about due. Take your car to Boyd's. Let them remove the carbon, grind the valves, check up on the timing, make whatever adjustments are necessary and you'll have a motor that will deliver extra thousands of miles. At just a nominal cost, too.

And don't forget — workmanship at the Boyd plant has been proved — you're certain of results.

A. W. PHILLIPS QUITS PLACE AS FIRE CHIEF

Resigns After Serving Nearly 26 Years in Department.

IN ILL HEALTH

Orville Jarvis Is Named Fireman By Mayor.

WELLSVILLE, O., Sept. 17.—Mayor Wallace L. Fogo today announced the resignation of A. W. Phillips, as chief of the Wellsville fire department, effective immediately.

Phillips, who tendered his resignation last week, retired because of ill health and defective hearing. In accepting Phillips' resignation "with reluctance," Mayor Fogo complimented the retiring official for his "clean record" in all matters pertaining to the fire department.

Phillips, who is past 73 years of age, has been chief of the first department for 25 years and six months being appointed by Fogo when the latter was mayor in 1903. His salary at that time was $150 a year. Previous to entering the employment of the city he was an engineer at the Wellsville plant of the American Sheet & Tin Plate company. He also served with the regular army for several years.

With the announcement of Phillips' resignation Mayor Fogo appointed Orville Jarvis as a fireman. Jarvis had a grade of 96 percent in the civil service examination conducted some time ago and was the first of the three eligibles submitted to Fogo from which to make his selection. Jarvis has been a truck driver for the Riggs Wholesale Grocery company for 17 years. His salary will be $130 a month. Jarvis succeeds M. R. Hickman, who resigned several weeks ago. John Cole is the other paid member of the department.

No successor to Phillips has yet been named by Mayor Fogo. Phillips' salary has been $115 a month, which was fixed by an initiated ordinance several years ago.

PLAN TO ATTEND CHURCH DINNER

Many members of the First Christian church of Wellsville will attend a fellowship dinner in the First Church of Christ, East Liverpool at 6:45 o'clock tonight, marking the opening of the Bethany college crusade for a $1,000,000 fund with which to erect two dormitories, improve college property and increase the endowment fund.

Five other churches of the district, including two in East Liverpool and one each in Chester, Newell and Pughtown, will take part in the rally. There will be no solicitation of funds.

The Rev. V. M. Blair, Bethany discussed the campaign from the pulpit of the local church at the Sunday morning service.

MIDLAND TEAM WINS, 4 TO 2

Wellsville Defeated In Deciding Game Of Series.

The service department team in the Crucible Steel company league, Midland, captured the deciding contest of the five-game series with the Wellsville nine of the City Industrial league at Midland yesterday afternoon by the score of 4 to 2.

Easton and Lindner were the battery for Wellsville, while Campbell and Nobers performed in the same positions for the home team. No runs were scored until Midland came to bat in the last half of the seventh inning when Pitcher Campbell hit a home run with one man on base.

Wellsville tied the score in the first half of the eighth. With a man on first, Shortstop Adamson hit for the circuit. The home team sewed up the game in the last half of the eighth when two more runs were scored.

FRANK WELLS ROTARY SPEAKER

President Frank Wells will be the speaker at the dinner meeting of the Wellsville Rotary club which will be held in the Riverview hotel at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night. His subject will be "Ohio, the Hope of the World."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—New advances in stocks of the steel, copper, oil and motor compaies was Wall Street's response to the favorable reports from these industries which filtered into the financial district today. The copper stocks moved up brilliantly on attainment of the 15-cent price for copper metal, a goal to which the producers have long been aspiring. The oil stocks have also had plenty of "good news" to respond to in the last week or two, and the bulls in this section of the market have evidently given full rein to their speculative enthusiasm.

A block of 10,000 shares of Anaconda copper sold at the year's highest price, after which the stock moved through 81 in active trading. Cerro de Pasco added three points to last week's 14 1-2-point advance. Greene Cananea, Kennecott and Inspiration were in good demand. Vanadium Steel, Central Alloy, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Crucible and other of the so-called independent steels rose a point or two in active trading, and United States Steel was well bought fractionally above Saturday's close.

With call money renewals at 7 per cent, and funds flowing more freely into the financial district, bankers held out the promise of an easier call loan situation, at least temporarily.

Stock sales in the first hour were approximately 1,000,000 shares, with the ticket about 15 minutes behind the market. Commodity markets were firm, with cotton up about $1.50 a bale, and grain fractionally higher.

RED CROSS ORGANIZES RELIEF PROGRAM IN SOUTH

U. S. DESTROYER RUSHES AID TO ISLAND CITY

National Director Directs Work In San Juan.

FOOD ON WAY

Pledges Are Received From Many Local Chapters.

BY COLE C. MORGAN.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Government agencies and the American Red Cross were in a feverish state of activity today organizing and putting into operation a stupendous relief program to care for the needs of the thousands of sufferers from the tropical hurricane that has laid waste to islands in the West Indies and now is tearing its way across the Florida peninsula.

The destroyer Gilmer, placed at the disposal of the Red Cross by the navy department by direction of President Coolidge, is expected to arrive at San Juan, Porto Rico, today.

Aboard the Gilmer are Henry M. Baker, national director of emergency relief and a staff of experienced relief workers from Red Cross headquarters here who will organize the activities in Porto Rico and the adjacent storm-swept islands.

Red Cross on Florida Job.

Late tonight or early tomorrow morning a naval vessel will steam out of New York with 375 tons of foodstuffs aboard bound for Porto Rico under orders of Admiral Hughes, chief of naval operations and acting secretary of the navy.

A. L. Schafer, of the national Red Cross headquarters staff, with six trained assistants were due to arrive in Jacksonville at noon today to organize the relief activities in Florida. This force will be augmented by Miss Ruth E. Mettinger, Red Cross nursing field representative in Florida and Red Cross chapter workers in Jacksonville.

The national Red Cross, which on Saturday set aside $50,000 from its emergency relief fund for the hurricane relief activities, today was receiving pledges of additional funds from Red Cross chapters throughout the country. These were in response to the appeal broadcast Saturday to the 5,000 chapters scattered across the United States. The appeal has been broadcast by radio, through the press and from the pulpit to reach every city and hamlet in the land.

Trains Rush Supplies.

The Florida East Coast, Atlantic Coast line and Seaboard Air line, the three major systems operating in Florida, officials here stated today, have issued orders and have trains assembled to rush supplies into the stricken area of that state and to bring out the population of any section where exacuation may be deemed neceessary.

Commanding officers of every army post in Florida and in adjacent states were under orders from the war department today to be prepared to rush emergency supplies, such as tents, cots, blankets, rations, etc., into the storm belt and also such troops as might be required should the emergency demand it.

Coast guard headquarters here was prepared today to rush cutters to ports on either coast of Florida or along the Gulf where their assistance might be needed.

Cherrington, head of the Anti-Saloon League of America; Dr. W. O. Thompson, former president of Ohio State university, and Daniel Marsh of Boston university.

KILLER JAWARSKI SUFFERS RELAPSE

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—The condition of Paul Jawarski, gunman, jail-breaker and killer, today made his murder trial, scheduled for Sept. 22, problematical.

Jawarski, who was captured last Thursday after a gun battle in which he killed a policeman and wounded two other men, before he was himself wounded and captured, suffered a relapse over the week-end. Last night his condition required the administration of narcotics and today his recovery was considered doubtful.

Search for John Vasbinder who, with Jawarski, shot his way out of the Allegheny county jail in Pittsburgh 13 months ago, while both were under sentence for first degree murder, is still under way.

GEN. CHANG TSUNG-CHANG may never again see the 20 Turkish, Korean, Russian, Chinese and Japanese wives and concubines to whom he gaily waved farewell the other day.

He promised to come back victorious. But, at present, he is fleeing from China's National forces. If the 20 ever see his face again, it may be on top of a sharp pole.

NATIONALIST troops of China are victorious everywhere. If Chinese statesmen can arrange a government to give order, protection and prosperity to 400,000,000, China will again be a nation.

CHICHIBU, heir apparent to the throne of Japan, will marry Setsuko Matsudaira, daughter of Japan's ambassador to the United States. Bride and bridegroom have exchanged presents, according to Japanese customs, centuries old.

The bride receives a fan, a kimono, a cask of wine and a fish freshly caught.

She sends to the prince a fresh-caught fish, an ancient sword and wine made of rice.

They take marriage and old customs seriously in Japan, and that is part of the people's strength.

In Japan, if you raise your arm as though threatening to strike a child, the child laughs, knowing that in Japan nobody strikes a child.

That feature of civilization we lack.

The French experimental air attack on Paris is intended to supply facts, not to protect battleship builders, but to show that even with her great air fleet, France could not protect Paris from attack.

FRENCH pilots assuming the role of a flying enemy, "theoretically" bombed the great French city in spite of French pursuit planes, sound detectors, flash lights and anti-aircraft guns.

That should make this country think, if anything could make this country think.

But at present we are so prosperous, so busy counting our money, that we haven't time for anything else.

'WINGS,' EPIC EPIC, COMING

Closeup Of Aviation in Picture Booked by Ceramic.

For the first time in history the world is going to be given an accurate closeup of the most fascinating field in present day human activity—aviation.

How it feels to go soaring at blinding speed thousands of feet above earth, what battles to the death in the air mean to the chevaliers of the sky, all these and more will be revealed to the public when "Wings" Paramount's epic of the American air service in the war, has its premiere at the Ceramic theatre next Monday.

Ever since the first daring aviator left the ground the work of flying has been virtually a closed book to the layman. The skymen have been almost a race apart, glimpsed only in the blue distance. A bird he was and bird he seemed. His world above the clouds, with its startling panoramas, has been exclusively his own.

The world has read of his exploits, thrilled to his deeds, marvelled at the wonders of his work, but of intimate knowledge of flying virtually nothing has been revealed.

In "Wings" the public is taken behind the scenes.

After his address, Hoover will motor to the Edison home to spend the night with the electrical wizard. Over the week-end, Edison issued a statement, declaring his allegiance to Hoover. The inventor revealed that some newspaper had stated he was for Smith and he said he wished to correct this error.

Hoover faces an active program for tomorrow. He first will visit the Newark municipal airport early in the forenoon. Then he will lead another motor caravan on a tour of northern New Jersey. His itinerary will carry him through Jersey City, Hoboken and Weehawken and intervening places. At 1 o'clock he will lunch in Newark at a party given by Senator Walter E. Edge to the Republican county chairman of New Jersey.

A third motor tour will follow, on which Hoover will visit Princeton, Elizabeth and Trenton. He will reboard his train at Trenton at 5 o'clock for the return trip to Washington.

SOUNDS NOTE OF HOPE FOR RETAIL DEALER

Dr. Julius Klein Forecasts Prosperity For Small Merchant.

ISSUES PAMPHLET

Warns Independents Must Consider New Order of Things.

By Robert S. Thornburgh.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—A note of hope for the independent retail merchant—hard pressed by the rapid expansion of the chain store system—was sounded by Dr. Julius Klein, federal director of foreign and domestic development.

Under Klein's supervision the commerce department issued a pamphlet on "Practical Aids to the Independent Merchant," which forecasts the approach of a new era of opportunity for the small merchant.

"Resourcefulness and freedom of action of the individual will always go far towards offsetting the advantage of large-scale operations of the more complicated organizations," Klein said.

Warns Small Business.

A warning was issued to small business, however, that "in this era of changing business methods and merchant who refused to consider the new order of things must give ground to his more efficient competitor."

"The merchant who functions intelligently as purchasing agent for his community has a distinct opportunity to render a real social service," Klein said. "The principal innovation introduced by the large corporation is the newer type of management and the recognized value of large-scale economies: But big business has no copyright on profitable methods and mere bulk is by no means necessarily synonymous with efficiency."

Study of Marketing.

The department is now conducting a study dealing with retail distributing and marketing. It has been found that nearly a million business men in the country do a volume of business hardly large enough to provide the facilities for the study of their several problems. This group must depend on the government for fact finding service and cooperation.

Klein said the department had set up a service section to act as a clearing house of information on all phases of domestic trade. He urged that merchants take greater advantage of "the unique and varied facilities of the commerce department to help solve their problems."

FIRST ILLNESS CLAIMS MAN, 89

HEAVY RAINS IN STORM BELT

Plate Glass Windows, Signs, Shrubbery Damaged.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Sept. 17.—A heavy rain drenched the Florida hurricane belt today accompanied by strong winds ranging from 50 to 75 miles on hour.

Considerable damage was done here to plate glass windows, signs, shrubbery and trees. The streets in the business district were littered with wooden signs, benches and other debris.

The tide was running unusually high against the ocean seawall and along the Halifax river fronting the mainland. Waves were leaping over the wall onto the river front parks.

The city was rapidly filling with refugees from the south, fleeing here for shelter from the storm. Most of these interviewed reported they witnessed heavy damage done by the storm but not deaths or injuries.

ROCKFORD STORM TOLL REACHES 14

ROCKFORD, Ill., Sept. 17.—The death toll of the tornado that swept Rockford's industrial section Friday mounted to fourteen today with the finding of six more bodies in the ruins of factory "B" of the Rockford Chair and Furniture company.

Rescue workers found the bodies in the wreckage of the northwest stairway, where most of the employes sought to escape when they saw the twister coming. Workers with steam shovels and tractors are working to recover one more body believed to be still buried beneath the mass of twisted debris.

WEEK-END DEATH TOLL IN OHIO

A slightly higher trend in fatalities over the 48-hour week-end period was noted today in a state-wide check. A strange phase was revealed in the compilation of traffic deaths when it was found that although many automobiles filled with holiday merrymakers figured in collisions and other accidents, the number of those escaping with slight injuries far overshadowed those who met death on the congested highways.

Among those listed as week-end fatalities were:

Dayton: Charles Walker, 35, killed when his truck struck by Big Four passenger train here.

Hamilton: Hamilton Doverby, 50, fatally injured by traction car near here.

Ashtabula: Richard Usher, Ashtabula, killed when truck hit by Pennsylvania train. John Roberts, Eagleville, killed when struck by freight engine near Austinburg.

Sabine: George Eckel, 17, drowned in stone quarry near here.

New Philadelphia: Elmer Seibert, 45, instanly killed when his automobile collided with another car near here.

Columbus: Edwin Bolon, 5, fatally injured when he fell from a tricycle into path of car said to have been driven by William McGowan.

Ashtabula: Richard Usher, Ashtabula, killed when his truck was hit by a train near here.

Ashtabula: John Roberts, Eagleville, killed when he was hit by a freight engine at Austinburg.

Cleevland: Andrew Trominec, 19, Cleveland, killed when an automobile in which he was a passenger overturned near Hudson, O.

Cincinnati:—Louis Brant, 40, and wife killed when their car swerved over an embankment near Butler, Ky.

ORGANIZE STORM RELIEF TRAIN

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 17.—Florida headquarters of the Red Cross met today to organize a relief train to proceed at once into the isolated section of the Florida east coast which was hit by the hurricane Sunday.

Doctors and nurses were recruited and it was expected the train would leave for Palm Beach before noon.

NINE ORPHANED BY AUTO CRASH

Father Killed In New Philadelphia Collision.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Sept. 17.—The shadow of tragedy had entered the home of Mrs. Vera Siebert, mother of nine children, here today following the death of her husband, Elmer Siebert, who was instantly killed last night when the automobile he was driving struck the rear wheel of another machine driven by Walter Tabor, also of this city.

Mrs. Siebert and five of the children were with the father at the time of the accident. Mrs. Siebert was taken to Union hospital, suffering from a broken rib, bruises and lacerations.

Two of the children, Helen, 11, and Loretta, 8, sustained minor bruises.

OHIOAN KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

BOWLING GREEN, O., Sept. 17.—Coroner J. C. Wethergill, of Wood city, today rendered a verdict of accidental death after investigating circumstances surrounding the death of Nick Kosma, 55, Belgian beet worker, who was killed when his automobile collided with the high powered machine of Sheriff Raymond F. White.

Kosma was instantly killed and his 8-year-old son thrown clear of the wreckage when the two machines crashed into each other late Saturday night as Sheriff White and Chief Deputy Bruce Pratt were answering a hurry call to Luckey where a quarrel was said to have arisen in a railroad camp.

Pratt sustained two fractured ribs while White escaped with slight bruises. Kosma's son was uninjured.

Grief Kills Mrs. Westenhaver.

CLEVELAD, Sept. 17.—Mrs. Mary P. Westenhaver, 66, who died in a hospital here last night of pneumonia resultng from grief over the recent death of her husband, Federal Judge D. C. Westenhaver, will be buried in Martinsburg, W. Va., it was announced today. Judge Westenhaver was also buried in Martinsburg, where both formerly lived.

Storm Lashes Florida

Report Hospital Demolished.

The weather bureau declared the storm probably would not abate for another 24 hours, and would not finally blow itself out before 36 hours.

An unconfirmed report to Jacksonville declared a hospital in West Palm Beach had been demolished, with possible loss of life.

A radio message received from Taveres, Fla., by an amateur radio operator in New Orleans declared the storm passed through Tampa at 90 miles an hour. Heavy property damage but no loss of life was reported.

"The disaster is the worst that ever occurred from a hurricane in the West Indies," was the way Gov. Horace Towner described the devastation in Porto Rico.

He reported one half of the houses in the island were destroyed, which would mean 700,000 homeless. He appealed for immediate aid.

A navy supply boat is being loaded in New York with provisions for Porto Rico and an army transport and a freight transport have been ordered to San Juan with badly needed food supplies.

JUDGE FINES FOUR PERSONS

Woman Pays $10 After Kicking Window Out of Car.

Mrs. Jane Parsons, Pink Alley, was fined $10 and costs by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley today after she pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct by fighting. Harry Parsons, her husband who was arrested on a similar charge, was dismissed.

They were arrested at Third and Washington streets by Fireman Jesse Terrence at 2:10 o'clock this morning after they are alleged to have quarreled. Mrs. Parsons said she had kicked the window out of Parson's automobile.

Reputed Gangster Slain in Cleveland

Haberdasher's Clerk Fires When He Sees Three Men Carrying Safe.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17.—David M. Porris, 23, reputed bandit and gangster, is dead here today, having been shot by Lee Cumberworth, 24, haberdasher's clerk, early yesterday.

Cumberworth says he was awakened by the sound of breaking glass just as day was breaking yesterday. Looking out his window, he says he saw three men carrying a safe from the butcher shop of Leroy Teufel, nearby. The clerk shouted to them and one threw a blackjack at him. Cumberworth fired twice. One of the men staggered and all ran away.

Cumberworth called police and following the trail of blood they found Uorris a short distance away, an ar- Porris a short distance away, an ar- He died a few minutes after arriving at City hospital. Smith Heads West migration, conservation and prohibition.

Bids for LaFollette Vote

The schedule has been so arranged as to take him through the heart of the so-called "progressive west", and the so-called "LaFollette country." He will close his two weeks tour in "fighting Bob's" own state of Wisconsin with a speech in Milwaukee on the night of Sept. 29.

The big prize of the trip is frankly conceded by Democratic leaders to be the LaFollette vote of 1924. They believe that where goes the LaFollette vote of 1924—more than five millions of them—there in all probability goes the election. LaFollette carried but one state, his own Wisconsin. Yet his vote in the five other states on the Smith schedule was sufficient that combined with the Davis vote it exceeded that of Coolidge, notwithstanding the great Republican sweep of that year.

Feeling confident in the east and secure in the south, notwithstanding the dry disaffection and religious split, the Democratic "best minds" believe if they can hold the normal Democratic vote of the west and win the LaFollette vote of 1924 the election of Governor Sith is not only possible but distinctly probable. Such at any rate is the broad outline of Democratic strategy upon which this western trip of Governor Smith's is based.

100 Aboard Train.

There was little about the Smith special today as it sped through western New York and Ohio that was reminiscent of the Democratic campaign trains of other years. This year for the first time in many years, the Democratic war chest is well filled. Where Cox in 1920 and Davis in 1924 struck westward on regular trains, sometimes with a diner and sometimes without, Governor Smith headed toward the Mississippi today in one of the most completely equipped and luxurious trains that ever whistled by a water tank.

It consists of 11 cars back of the engine, and its personnel runs almost to a hundred people. Considerably more than half of these, however, are correspondents and photographers.

The political correspondent alone number 40 and there are a dozen camera men. They occupy three cars in addition to one car given over entirely to working quarters for them. Nothing like the arrangements nor the number of newspaper correspondents has ever been seen before on any political campaign trip presidential or otherwise.

Speci l Radio Announcer.

There is even a special radio announcer who will preside at the "mike" and make the introductions at all the national hook-ups where Governor Smith speaks. There are typists, stenographers, messengers, mimeographers, telegraphers, and what not.

The train is running as a special with no stops, other than operating stops before Chicago, which will be reached tonight at 8:30. It will be switched there from the New York Central tracks to the Chicago Northwestern tracks for the journey to Omaha. Governor Smith will not leave the train.

The Albany "home folks" gave the governor a rousing send-off early this morning. Street flares of red fire burned from the excutive mansion in Eagle street to the station, and thousands cheered him as he swung jauntily aboard the train wearing the well-known brown derby. The train left a few minutes after midnight.

MARYLAND ABOLISHES TOLL ON ITS "GOLD-DIGGING" BRIDGE

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md.—Maryland's "gold-digging" bridge will dig no more.

The bridge that spans the Susquehanna between this town and Perryville and continues the motor route from the south to New York via Wilmington, Del., will be free to the motoring public after September 29.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, who holds views similar to those of Gov. Al Smith as to state rights, will head the celebration that will be staged here. A monster demonstration is planned and all will literally see the toll tax of "six bits" tossed into the river.

Gold Price in Tolls.

Marylanders only know the structure as the "gold mine bridge." For many years they have paid for the privilege to drive across the span. In recent years hostile residents of the state questioned how much money was collected and who got it. It was reported that the bridge accumulated a huge fortune for its owners.

The builders of the structure, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, did not enjoy its profits. The company used it for their tracks but when traffic increased they erected another bridge of increased width.

To remove the abandoned bridge would have been costly, company engineers estimated, and it was offered for sale. A few private citizens made an offer. It was reported to be a "song." Not realizing the approach of motor traffic the company sold the bridge at the ridiculously small sum.

Soon To Be Free.

Later on Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania and other states perfected smooth roads which lured automobile travel. All travelers have to cross the bridge to come north or south unless they drive a considerable distance out of the way to cross the free state bridge at Conowingo, Md.

After years of "digging gold" for its owners the bridge was purchased by the state. Because of its narrow width another deck was constructed on top, one deck for each direction of traffic. The tax was continued until the state had recovered its expenditure.

On September 29 the "bridge will be square with the state," John N. Mackall, chairman of the Roads commission, said "and she will be free to the public."

Ritzy Rosalie

As the nights grow cooler it is essential that Rosalie have a wrap that looks and feels warmer than a chiffon or lace scarf. Do you see her wearing a cape formed entirely of uncurled ostrich feathers. It is called a Robinson Crusoe cape, but since that famous adventurer's island was reputed to hold only a couple of cats, a dog, a parrot and some goats beside himself and Friday Rosalie wonders why he deserves to have an ostrich feather named in his honor. He should have had at least one ostrich in his menagerie.

Homer Laughlin Downs Falls Creek Potters, Winning Series

Finley Scores Winning Run When Cal Wagner Doubles

Evans and Kane Stage Pretty Exhibition of Pitching in Deciding Battle on Newell Diamond, Saturday.

Joe Dickey's Homer Laughlin team won the series with the Jackson Chinas by defeating the Falls Creek potters, 2 to 1, on the Newell field this season, was chalked up for the West Virginians through a break in the sixth inning. Chap Finley scoring the winning run on Cal Wagner's double when the ball bounded over First Baseman Calvert's head.

Both Evans, for Laughlin, and Kane, for Jackson Chinas, gave a clever exhibition of pitching. Evans permitted four hits and fanned five men, while Kane held the Newell swatters to six safeties, two of them being infield hits.

Finley, for the Laughlins, and Watson, for Jackson China, starred in the field.

In the fifth Falls Creek potters broke into the run column when Chambers tripled to left, and scored on Pashal's out at first.

Laughlin counted two runs. Reese was safe at first on Chambers' poor throw. He stole second, advanced to third on Digman's out at first and came home on Talbott's single to left. Finley, running for Talbot, scored the winning tally on Cal Wagner's double to right.

Cut Hours Of M'Graw As Manager

Gossip Says Tierney Is Real Boss of Giants.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—The New York Giants, apparently due to finish a dashing second in the National League stakes, have acquired a new manager, an unofficial but strictly valid one, according to more or less reliable gossip around the ball club today. John J. McGraw stil is with the outfit but they say his managerial office hours have been slightly curtailed. He used to give 24-hour service on the job; now the word is that he is a very successful manager between the hours of three and six of an afternoon when the club is on the ball field.

During the remaining hours of the day, it seems, James J. Tierney, the club secretary, goes obligingly on duty in Mr. McGraw's stead, issuing orders that are needed and making decisions that are not.

One of these, they say, resulted in the famous transfer of Rogers Hornsby to the Boston Braves. Those associated with the Giants will tell you that, if Tierney didn't swing that one, he swung the man who did and that that man isn't called John McGraw even by those who don't know him.

Tierney Traded Grimes.

Another deal for which Tierney is held accountable is that which saw Burleigh Grimes pass to Pittsburgh and win more than twenty games this season and Vic Aldridge make two conspicuous moves: First, to the Giants; second, to Newark, of the International league. This transaction is said to have been a strictly personal triumph of Tierney's.

The deal, they say, was almost closed before McGraw heard about it and later was carried through against his protest. Aldridge immediately rewarded his new connection by holding out for $3,000 more than he had received in Pittsburgh. He didn't report at the training camp and, when the season opened, he still was conducting a long range vendetta with the business office. The net result was that Aldridge lost his first month's salary and the Giants a good right-hand pitcher.

For, except in the first game he pitched where he was beaten by one run, Vic failed utterly as a Giant and finally had to be waived out of the league.

Engineered Hornsby Trade.

The Hornsby deal, a laundry check as far as the public was concerned, might have turned out worse, considering that Hogan has proved a first class catcher to say nothing of the fact that the club would have gone nowhere at a frightful clip if it hadn't had Welsh to move into centrefield when Roush collapsed.

However, the success or failure of two major deals is beside the point, which is that they were alleged to have been made over McGraw's veto. In brief, he seems after all these years to have finally succeeded in becoming an employe of the Giants. It was different, much different, in better days. He was the Giants then.

Jeff Pfeifer Says Baseball Sets New Pace

Old Star Is Impressed By Slugging Orgies.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 17.—"Baseball certainly has changed a lot since I pitched in the big leagues. In those days a single run might decide a game but nowadays a team is likely to get half a dozen runs in a rally."

That is the impression of present day baseball of Frank X. "Jeff" who 21 years ago indelibly inscribed his name on the roll of honor by twirling in a no-hit game, in a National league game for Boston against Cincinnati and who only a few days ago pitched a no-run game, striking out 15 men.

"There were many hard hitters in my day," said the 46-year-old veteran, "but Babe Ruth is the greatest slugger that ever lived, bar none. Heinie Zimmerman, "Cactus" Cravath, Buck Freeman, and others were some of the touch babies, but none could belt the horse hide like the Babe."

He is not only a wonderful hitter, Pfeifer thinks, but is also a great all-around player.

Opinion of Babe.

"Babe is a mighty fine fielder, covers a lot of ground, can throw with the best of them, and can run bases. I think he is unquestionably the best drawing card the game has ever known."

The big broad shouldered veteran is still active in his favorite sport, and occasionally pitches for a minor league team that bears his name.

Pfeifer twirled in the big leagues from the time of his graduation from the University of Illinois in 1904 until his arm became lame in 1912. He first went to the Cubs, but was traded to the Boston Braves in 1905 and remained in the Hub until the Fall of 1908, when he went to Baltimore to play in the outfield. Pfeifer was with Toronto in 1909, returned to Chicago in 1910 and wound up his big league career back with Boston in 1912.

Frank is a brother of Ed Pfeifer, who pitched for Brooklyn and St. Louis a few years ago.

Recalls Old Days.

The former big time star loves to talk of by-gone days, when "baseball was baseball" as he says.

"We used to have to pitch mighty carefully then, especially playing in parks like the South Boston grounds in Boston and the Philly park. A pitcher had to keep the ball on the outside to the batters all the time, for fear he would pull it into the stands. A long fly down the line was good for a home run.

"You couldn't do much loafing when you realized that a single run might lose a ball game for you."

Pfeifer was but a young lanky pitcher of 25 years, when he right handed the Cincinnati club to a hitless game. The scene was the old South End grounds on Columbus avenue and Walpole street now seldom used except for soccer games.

Labor in Egypt is so cheap that efforts to introduce washing machines there have met with little success.

Walk Gives Pirates Win Over Giants

Paul Waner Scores Only Marker to Beat Benton.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Larry Benton encountered a snag yesterday afternoon when he went into the box to chalk up his twenty-fifth pitching victory. The Pirates plastered their Giant foemen with whitewash due to the sensational performance of Southpaw Fred Fussell, who was given high-class support at all stages and the Buccaneers registered the only tally of the combat.

The game was a thriller from start to finish, but when Pittsburgh drew a contributed marker in the early part of the fracas, the great throng of 36,000 fans lapsed into silence which was broken all to bits in the last of the ninth when the Giants opened a rally only to be stopped by strategic work when they had filled up the bases.

The Pirates cheerfully accepted their donation in the third. Wright opened with a single to center and Hemsley flied out. Fussell poked a single to short right and Wright had to draw up at second. Adams walked and then with the bases jammed, Lloyd Waner forced Wright at the plate as he chopped the ball along the third base path. Lindstrom fielded the roller and with no chance to throw out the batter he mopped the pill to Hogan. The toss was low but the Giant catcher scooped it out of the dirt and Glenn was out on a close play. The stations were still jammed as Paul Waner went to bat. The first three offerings were called balls, but the next two were strikes. Then came a low one and Paul was passed, forcing Fussell across for the only run.

Big 10 Schedules 'Spotted' By Intersectional Clashes

Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, Northwestern and Chicago Book Feature Contests.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17—Intersectional battles will feature the schedules of five Western (Big Ten) conference teams this fall.

Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin and Northwestern each have contests slated with distant teams and the University of Chicago schedule boasts games with an eastern, southern and western squad.

In addition and probably marking tional clashes in 1928 will be the No- the highlight of mid-west inter-sectre Dame-Navy game to be played here at Soldier field on October 13.

Opens Sept. 29.

Chicago opens its season here Sept. 29 against South Carolina and plays Wyoming on October 6. The Maroons third intersectional game is against Pennsylvania on Nov. 3. This meeting ends a four-year contract between the two schools, the eastern eleven having won two games to Chicago's one.

To many fans the Dartmouth-Northwestern game at Evanston, Ill., a Chicago suburb, on Nov. 24 will be a super-attraction. Both schools are slated to have powerful, beefy elevens and a fray of class is being heralded.

Ohio State will be hosts to Princeton Nov. 3 and Wisconsin will play the Alabama eleven on the same day at Madison.

Michigan Goes East.

Michigan will play its traditional game with the Navy in the east this fall. The date is Nov. 10. The Wolverines won from the Middies last year, avenging defeat the year before.

The Notre Dame-Navy contest is expected to hang up a new football attendance record. Two years ago when the Army-Navy contest was played at Soldier field 115,000 fans witnessed the fray.

This fall the stadium at the field is being enlarged to care for 165,000 persons. An early sellout for the game is predicted. All of the high-priced seats have already been sold.

Farrell's victory came on the seventeenth hole in the afternoon round. His score was 37-35-38-25—145, while Hagen had a 35, a 37, another 37 and a 39 for a total of 148.

French Star And Hunter In Net Play

Final Round for National Singles Championship.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Henri Cochet, champion of France, and Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, N. Y., veteran Davis Cup star and ranking number 2 on the American list, will clash this afternoon, weather permitting in the final round for the national singles lawn tennis championship of the United States. Records and past performances indicate victory for the light-lipped little Frenchman. But Hunter, having defied every tradition of the game in blasting his way through to the final round by a brilliant succession of sensational victories, may very easily cap the climax by trouncing Cochet to prevent the 1928 title from journeying across the Atlantic as did the 1926 and 1927 championship, both of which are captured by Rene Lacoste, ranking number 1 in the last of the world's tennis masters.

Cochet, victor over both William T. Tilden and John Hennessey in the Davis Cup matches at Auteil early in the summer, and regarded as one of the most brilliant singles player the game has ever seen, has everything in his favor to succeed Lacoste as champion of the United States. His game has never been better than in his quarter final and semi-final matches against Gregory Mangin and Frank Shields, two of the younger American tennis stars. Cochet, too, has gone about his campaign in a methodical, scientific fashion, marred somewhat by his failure to regard his early round opponents seriously enough, but always playing invincible tennis when called upon to play under pressure.

It Never Pays

Romance in New York

By GILBERT ROGERS

But meanwhile her head was full of curiosity about Tubby Wells' changed attitude, for changed it certainly was. She was conscious of that as they slipped through the channel and made their way in the blue, burning morning, past sandy beaches and lonely flecks of island. Then at last they anchored, not far from a sandy strip, a point of land with a few trees on it. Nothing in sight anywhere.

Then Tubby's soft, pink hand closed over her wrist. "You come high, my dear, but—maybe you're worth it!"

Now she knew what that look in his eyes meant. She knew he regarded her as fair game.

"Would you mind taking your hand from my wrist," she said.

She tugged herself free, rising to her feet. He had risen, too. She looked around. The crew, the stewards—no one was in sight. Ordered to keep out of sight—was that it?

She managed to laugh. "Are you so ridiculous as to think—well, to think you're a caveman or something?"

Tubby Wells' eyebrows went high. "What did you come out for—after knowing that I know what you are? Are you a four-flusher all the way-"

His voice snapped with anger, and Sally put out her hands in a gesture.

"I don't know what you're talking about," she said helplessly. "I—I haven't any money, but just because I came up here to try to—to try to meet somebody—"

She could not go on because he had put his arms around her, drawn her tight, and kissed her. Then she tore herself free. It was not being kissed she hated so—it was b ing kissed like that! And as he stood there, watching her, a little too fat, almost funny-looking, she read in his face an impulse that was not funny but that was insane and dangerous.

"You're—you're acting like a villian in a melodrama," she was able to say, trying hard to be cool, to be scornful.

"Am I?" But he spoke as if he hadn't heard. He took a slow step towards her, then another as she moved back, bracing herself with her hands against the rail. It was the slowness of him, the hardness of his eyes that did it. She was smiling contemptuously, but her heart was thumping, and she was praying not to go into a panic. Too silly—too impossible—to be afaird! But she was afraid--afraid of a short, plump man with a red face and greedy eyes who had so much money he could buy his way out of nearly anything.

It happened so swiftly that she did not remember thinking, or planning. Only there was the long lazy swell, and the shining sand of the beach in the distance. With scarcely a sound, she had thrown the bathrobe from her shoulders, leapt upon the rail, turned and taken a long dive.

Down into the green depths, then up, up to the surface, and as she struck out with an overhand, Sally saw Tubby Wells staring at her from the yacht with open mouth and dum-founded eyes. He shouted something, but she did not hear, did no' try to hear. Only he had not expected this, not expected any girl to be as reckless as to take that dive, act so swiftly upon impulse.

She felt so angry and humiliated she wanted to cry, only you couldn't very well cry and swim! Yet her breath came like little sobs as she pushed her way towards the beach.

Strange how far away it looked from the water's surface. On the deck of the yacht it had seemed so near. Well, she could swim that distance—it wouldn't be hard—just a little extra exertion—though of course it was a long swim.

She was half way between the yacht and the shore when she admitted the truth: she could not reach the shore! Half desperately she turned her head. Tubby Wells' yatch was under weigh again, and standing out to sea. It was plainly leaving its anchorage, growing smaller. And before her half a mile, perhaps three quarters of a mile to the nearest sand spit. Three quarters of a mile and she felt she could scarce do three strokes

For a moment to Sally's frightened brain came one incredible idea: Tubby Wells had out of sheer vindictiveness sailed away, leaving her to die. But no, that couudn't be. He had left in defeat, believing that any girl rash enough to jump into the sea must be pretty confident of her swimming ability and perfectly able to reach the shore.

Sally's breath was coming in short jerky gasps. She tried to float for a moment. Well, this was the end of it, this was the tragic end of the whole escapade. Down in those green depths, in the sea-weed, in the bitter salt water, to swirl there with the tide like sea-weed itself.

"I mustn't give up. Oh, I mustn't give up!" she said in a kind of fierce despair. At least, she could make a try, go as far as she could, gain inches shoreward. It would be better to give up still trying than to give up without trying at all.

The panic left her now. Only a kind of desperate coolness moved in her, and spending every ounce of energy as carefully as she could, she swam on. Her breath was labored, and there was a hideous ringing in her ears. After all, it would be so easy to stop—she was too tired to go on—it was pain to move an arm with each gasp. Yet she went on, on through an eternity until she saw nothing except a dancing green, the floor of the sea, and the blue sky rocking and reeling above her.

She had died, she was dead and floating among the sea-weed. Only her will lived, driving her on, ignoring her suffering, acting of itself with a kind of blind and terrible force. Hours seemed to spin past in a confusion of color to the bubbling sounds of water. Then she yielded and even her will gave way. Her weary muscles relaxed, relaxed. Then all at once her feet touchd and a shock of electricity ran through her. The tide was running out. She had reached the flats. She stumbled and swayed forward, thrashing the water with her hands. It grew less. The shore line that blurred before her straightened out. She staggered towards it, gained the sand, slipped down there, and did not move.

Then some little time later she opened her eyes. The sky was above her, but something dark intervened. She made out a man's head bending down, a man's eyes staring, burning into hers. His arm supported her neck. She tried to smile. For a miracle had happened. It was Jerry Evesham!

CHAPTER 14.

He lifted her swiftly, easily. "You're strong," she tried tried to say, but could not. It was happiness, ecstasy even, to settle back and pillow her head against his shoulder as with his easy stride he carried her down the beach and around the point.

Then he put her down gently, like some frail thing that may be broken, in the soft grass. Though the sun was shining, she was bitterly cold. Her teeth chattered.

Jerry Evesham frowned. She saw that the dingy little boat was anchored here in the small cove, out of sight. The tender was pulled up on the beach. He gave it a great shove, jumped in, and without a word to her, sculled furiously for the larger boat. In three minutes he was miraculously back again with a big shaggy sheepskin coat and a bottle of brandy. The hot warmth of the brandy trickled down her throat, the rough coat folded itself around her, and in a tide her vitality began to return.

"What happened? How did you get here? Great Scot, when I saw you there, lying in the sand! . . . Listen, you had me worried to death for a minute. How did you happen to be there? Tell me!"

"Oh, I—I jumped off a yacht," said Sally vaguely.

"Jumped off a yacht? Don't kid me. You didn't really jump off a yacht!"

She nodded. "Ooo! That brandy is warm . . . Yes, I did jump off it. Besides it was—well, I can't believe I did, but I did. You see a man bothered me. I guess I got scared. Besides I thought I could make the shore.

"A man bothered you!"

How nice he was when he scowled! And his voice—how angry that suddenly had become!

She put out her hand. "It doesn't matter—not really matter. I shall get tired if you make me tell you all about it. Please don't let's talk about it."

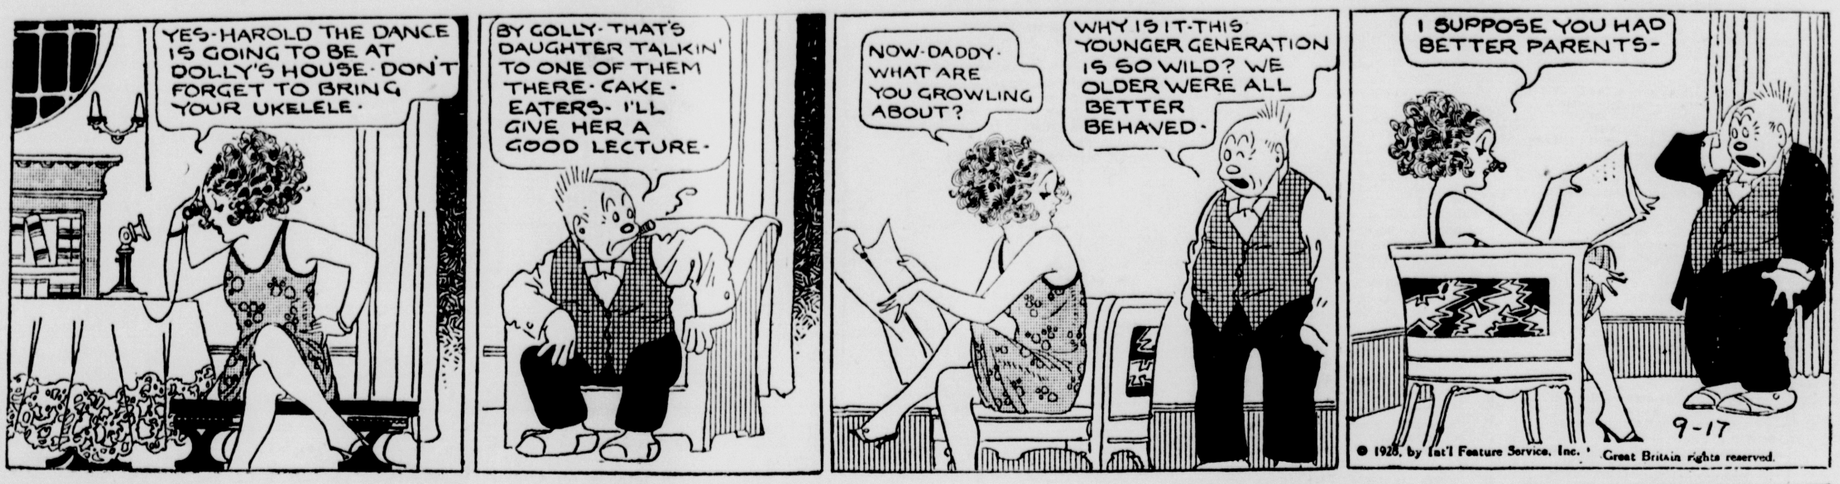

"But I know—but where is he?"

POLA SCORES HIT AT AMERICAN

She loved wisely, but too well. She met her doom when she really fell in love, and incurred the wrath of one of her most ardent admirers.

That, in brief, is the story of "Loves of an Actress," Pola Negri's greatest Paramount starring vehicle, which opened at the American theatre today.

Miss Negri's recent productions, "Barbed Wire," "The Woman on Trial" and "Beggars of Love" have won wide acclaim, and to top off this list of successes, she is now presented in a story that gives her the greatest chance she has had for displaying her remarkable dramatic talents, and her abilities as a charmer and adventuress.

The story is a tragic one, despite the fact that the original was a celebrated tragedienne of Europe during the last half century. She was a notorious heart-breaker, relish the idea of twisting powerful political business and social leaders around her little finger. After years of this sort of thing, an unsophisticated youth came into her life. Then one of her lovers, in a jealous rage, threatened ruination for both.

Full of dramatic moments and fairly bursting with power and gripping scenes, "Loves of an Actress" is by far the best Pola Negri production we have seen.

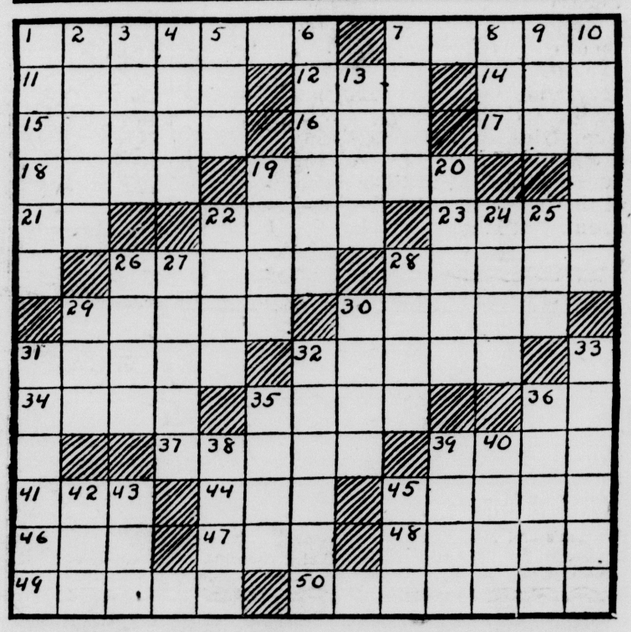

Its type and characteristics remind one of this star's far-famed European success, "Passion," which, by the way, might have been a suitable title, even though the stories are by no means alike.

Rowland V. Lee directed this picture, and is credited with the screen play, having adapted it from a fact-story written by Ernest Vajda.

In the supporting cast are Nils Asther, Paul Lukas, Mary McAllister, Nigel de Brulier, Philip Strange and Richard Tucker.

Air travel in Europe is booming.

ANNIE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am greatly in love with a fellow whom I have been going with for nearly eight months.

Lately he made a date with me but he failed to keep it. He apologized then two weeks later; he made another date and did not keep it. I haven't seen him since.

Do you think I should call him up or wait until I see him to find out the trouble.

HEARTBROKEN GERTIE.

HEARBROKEN GERTIE: My dear, a man who deliberately breaks his engagement with a young lady, without an exceedingly plausible excuse, isn't worth a second thought. Under no circumstances call him, as he is the one who owes the explanation.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Could you possibly publish a list, or advice me someone to whom I could write who would tell me what the average girl needs in the way of wearing apparel, who is entering college in the Fall as a freshman? This is perhaps a little out of your line, but I thought you would be able to help me. SALLY.

SALLY: I have noticed in several issues of various women's magazines just such a list as you are asking for, my dear. Look through them on one of the news stands and I am quite sure you will find what you are looking for. You see, Sally, it would be hard to give you an exact list, as much depends on the college. Some of them are quite strict in regard to dress, and others not quite so strict. But I am sure that you will find what you want in such a magazine as I have mentioned.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and am very much in love with a man three years my senior. I drive a car and about every day I meet him walking home, he always smiles and speaks. Would it be right for me to offer him a lift home? DOUBTFUL.

DOUBTFUL: Perfectly proper to offer a lift, my dear, provided you know the man—that is, if you have been introduced to him and are not simply "picking him up."

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my late teens (18 years) and am a senior in high school.

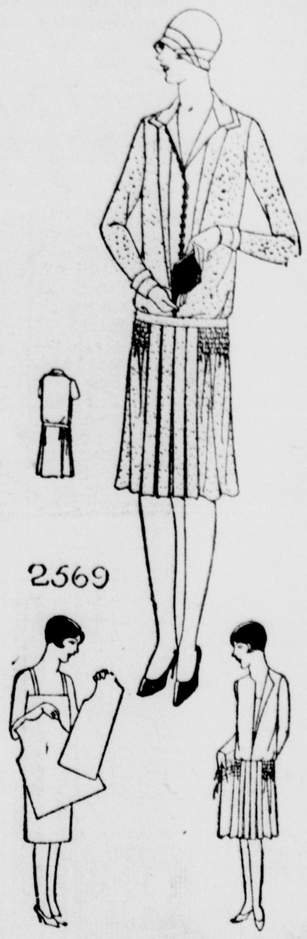

I am going with a boy who went with a girl for about two years before he started going with me. I have been going with him for a little over a year now and we are practically engaged, since we plan to marry as soon as I get through school. Mother does not approve of this boy because she thinks that he should marry his other girl. But he does not love her. And we love each other so! He has never asked her to marry him, so must I give him up for her? LILLUMS.

LILLUMS: Really, my dear, I think that if you two are engaged, there is no reason in the world why you should give him up, unless, of course, there is something more than your letter states. However, he has shown his preference for you and declared his love for you by a proposal of marriage. So, why worry? Evidently he cares more for you than the other girl, since he has asked you to be his wife. There are very few men who marry the first girl they go around with, and it is no more than fair that he know several before he definitely decides which is the right mate for him. So take things as they are, don't doubt his love, and good luck to you.

Aviator With 50 Hours of Flying Behind Him Will be Granted Commercial License

Veteran Says Average Man Should "Solo" After Five Or Six Hours Of Dual Instruction.

WASHINGTON.—How hard is it and how long does it take to learn to fly?

These questions, doubly doubtful because of the conflicting estimates of aviators, are fairly simple, according to William P. McCracken, Assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of aeronautics.

McCracken, himself a veteran flier, holds that the average man should be able to "solo" after five or six hours of dual instruction.

"This instruction," he said, "should be spread over a period of from six to fifteen days. An hour of instruction each day is enough, since the novice concentrates so intensely on learning that his capacity to absorb details is soon exhausted."

Statements that it is as easy to learn to fly a plane as to learn automobile driving are far from correct the aeronautics boss declared.

Learn In A Few Hours

"Even those who have never tried to drive an automobile have ridden in them so much that they can judge speed and distance and have unconsciously become familiar with methods of operation. A better comparison is the sail boat. The average man can learn to fly much quicker than he can learn to handle even the single-sheeted catboat with any degree of proficiency," he declared.

If a few hours of instruction and a couple of solo flights will make a fairly competent flier, still it does not make a Lindbergh. Nor does it fit a man for 500 mile cross-country jaunts.

The novice will be far safer if he wings his first 100 hours within sight of his airdrome, McCracken asserted. After learning to solo, he must then diligently practice until he has the "feel" of his ship and has absorbed some knowledge of adverse flying conditions.

The department will issue a commercial license to an aviator with 50 hours of flying behind him, but will not allow him to carry passengers on trips. After 200 hours of flying he can get his transport license.

The eager novice, in picking a teacher, should find an aviator who has a commercial or transport license and a licensed plane, especially the latter, since the department will not issue licenses for obsolete "crates" which are unstable, McCracken said.

Power Powered Machines

The best planes to learn in are the low powered, stable machines which can land at a comparatively low rate of speed. The high-powered, speedy planes are too sensitive for the novice.

Although it is not absolutely necessary for the flier to be familiar with motors, it is always valuable knowledge, McCracken declared.

"If a flier can afford to have a mechanic take care of his plane, he needn't know anything about the motor. I know expert fliers who boast that they know nothing whatever about mechanical things. But if your motor goes dead even if you land safely, it is not always easy to find a mechanic competent to repair it."
